Amada Senior Care Central New Jersey; has met and/or exceeds the stringent standards set by the Home Care Standards Bureau; becomes one of over 200 A+ Certified agencies in US.

Hamilton Town, NJ — November 4, 2020 — The Home Care Standards Bureau announced today that Amada Senior Care Central New Jersey is among a distinguished national group of agencies to be recognized with an A+ certification from the Home Care Standards Bureau.

The Home Care Standards Bureau awards A+ certification only to home care agencies that meet and adhere to a stringent code of standards and ethics. These standards require agencies to be fully insured and licensed, perform thorough background checks and provide comprehensive training for all their caregivers. Agencies must also provide services to families in a fair and transparent manner, providing care with dignity and trust. Once achieved, A+ certified agencies submit to regular audits to ensure that all HCSB standards are being maintained.

Amada Senior Care Central New Jersey is a non-medical home care agency offering the highest quality personal care allowing clients to remain in their own homes. Amada Senior Care Central New Jersey joins a select group of HCSB A+ Certified agencies in the United States. For more information, go to: www.homecarestandards.net.

The Home Care Standards Bureau was created as a service to people seeking home care. Often times, non-medical home care agencies aren't required to meet any state regulations and very few federal regulations. David Fraser, president of The Home Care Standards Bureau, says, "Each of our agencies are held to the highest standards in the industry. I am proud to say Amada Senior Care Central New Jersey has been awarded the prestigious HCSB A+ Certification, making it one of an elite class of home care agencies in the US."
